WHO IS SEDS-ÉEDS?

Student for the Exploration of Space (SEDS) is Canada's largest student-run non-profit that works at the national level to inspire and empower students joining the space industry, and to advocate for the advancement of space exploration in the public sphere.

Through our annual conference, various competitions, research projects and network of student groups, SEDS-Canada aims to provide opportunities for young professionals to get involved and make an impact in the space field.

For more information visit us on all platforms by clicking the icons below.

WHAT IS THE ASCENSION CONFERENCE?

Ascension is SEDS-Canada's flagship event, bringing together students, researchers, and industry professionals for a weekend-long space conference. Attendees discover opportunities in the Canadian Space sector and our partners have the chance to engage with young talent and create connections with industry leaders and innovative academics.

Conference Plan 2022

Last year's online conference was a huge success! This year the Ascension conference is planned to run as a hybrid event. Over three days, the conference will host speakers from industry and academia to deliver various talks and panels through an online platform. This will be supplemented by an optional socially distanced networking event in Toronto to connect our partners with talented students in the Canadian space industry, Covid guidelines permitting.

ASCENSION AT A GLANCE

Crowd Drawing Speakers:

Our reputation as Canada's national student space conference allows us to bring in a unique cast of inspirational and highly sought after speakers from a variety of disciplines.

Dr. Matt RussoGuitarist turned astrophysicist, his
TED talk "What does the Universe
Sound Like" has over 1.7 mil views

Dr. Andrew J. Higgins
